TRACES

Villa Maria College Erie, Pennsylvania

1971

Light hazes gaily misinterpreted unruly infiltrates of whiteness as forms shrewdly regard the sound and figurines formulate in their victorian visions, the loveliness of a crowded day.

The forms burn in the temperature of the ages
And it is realized by the coolness of the sun as it's rays fall indiscriminately on surfaces.

Unsurption detected in the ecology of the sea —
giving to man his knowledge and his soul, recalling in her depths shades of lives past.

Recognized fusion
in Retrospective longing — Employed by those who enjoy.

Villa . . .

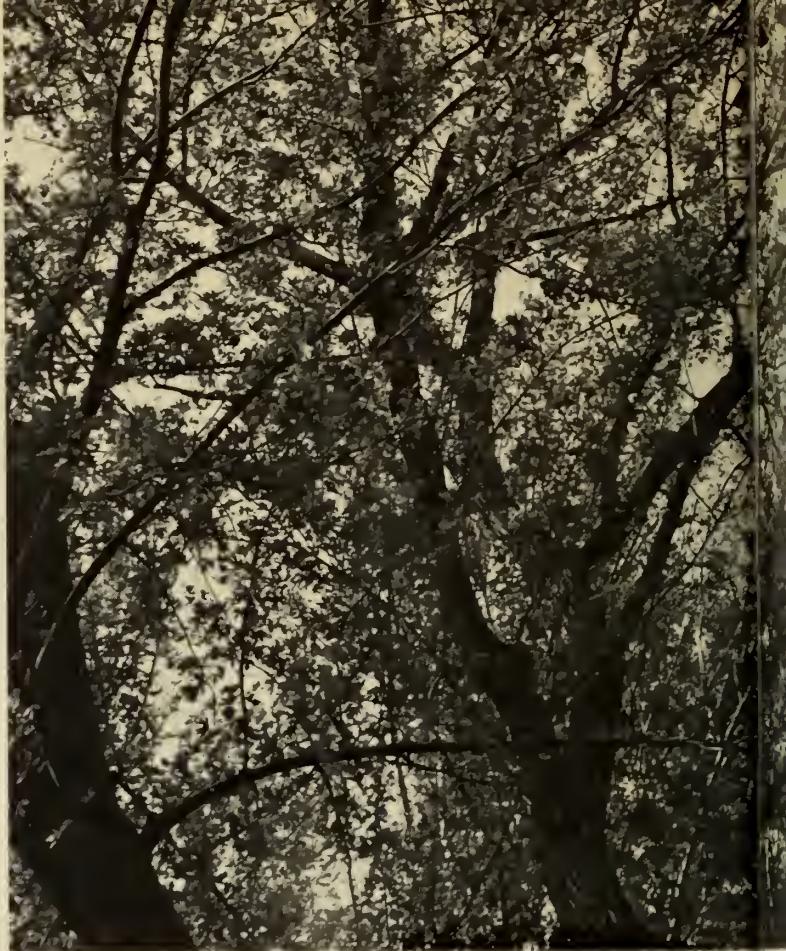

Voices in the air,
sympathetic harmony coming from the trees . . .

"You're here today
No future fears
This day will last
A Thousand Years;
If you want it To . . ."

“Each of us
must do the things
that matter,
All of us
must see what we can see . . .”

Colors of the sun,
flashing on the water top;
Echoes from the land
begging for a coin.
Many other tiny worlds
slipping past my hand . . .

“Outside your window
Rain is pouring down,
You know that by tomorrow morning
There won’t be no rain around . . .”
